

HOW STREAMS OF MILAM GOT THEIR NAMESBY
MRS. JEFF T. KEMP

In Spring, as the winds freshen across the prairies and bluebonnets lie like turquoise carpet beneath our feet, Texans pause in the pursuit of gain to think on the past glories of our state and to wonder what the future may hold.

As the panorama passes before him the Texan is proud of the wide expanse of Texas. Empire state of the South, handed down to him by the valor and sacrifice of the forefathers and he reconsecrates himself to the glorious fulfillment of the dream of the pioneers.

Our state is a land of romance, of stirring deeds and of valiant men. The names of many of these have been preserved to us in the names of places. Few of us realize how much history and romance is to be found in the names of familiar places.

Our own town and county bear the names of two of the bravest and boldest of early Texas pioneers. From the very large territory included in the early Milam Land District thirty-two counties have been carved. The present area of Milam County is 1048 square miles. This is bounded on the Northeast by the lordly Brazos River whose Indian name Tockonhono breathes music and whose Spanish name signifying the Arm of God, indicates that we are enriched by his loving favor. This river receives the water of all the streams that make their way through our territory.

It is of the names of the rivers, creeks and smaller streams of Milam County that I would trace the history today.

With the outline of the County map in mind attention should be called to the names of the streams to be found: Little River, San Gabriel River, Brushy Creek, The Three Yeguas, Bear, Hog, Mustang, Cow, Turkey, Alligator, Bond, Copperas, Boggy, Salty, Cedar Brier and Briary, Cottonwood, Cattail, PinOak, Elm, Indian, Tonk, Lipan, Three Mile, Six Mile, Cannon Snap, Wauleye, Limekiln, Donahoe, Clay, Reese, Hause, Neil, Harl, McFall, Davidson, Jones and Walker Creeks.

In the names of these streams the names of the Indian Spanish and Anglo-American occupied of the land is observed. The names of some of these streams were given so long ago that it has been impossible to trace them.

The name "Little River" near which our "friendly city" of Cameron is lo-

L. B. Fikes, county treasurer of Milam County is a candidate for a second term in that office subject to the action of the primary election on July 24.

TELLS HOW STREAMS MILAM WERE NAMED

eated has not always borne the expressive English name it now has, but was called the River San Andres in comparatively recent field notes. But whatever name our river is called there is an old tradition here to the effect that he who drinks from the waters of this stream will always return to Milam County, no matter how far away he may roam. The truth of this has recently been proven by the welcome return of several prominent families to our County.

The name San Andres River recalls Spanish supremacy in Texas. Prominent among the motive forces that brought the Spanish within our borders was the zeal of the missionaries to convert the Indians who lived here. Records of Spanish officials who traveled with large cavalades to the frontiers of their domains have recently been translated and we find from these ancient sources the names of many streams they crossed.

The earliest definite mention that I have found of Little or San Andres River was the crossing on May 31, 1716 of Espinosa and Ramon just above its junction with the Brazos.

In 1720 Aguayo, the Spanish Governor made an expedition through Texas. He followed a more northerly course than had hitherto been traveled and he reached the stream now called Little River at a point about three-fourths the distance between Cameron and Belton. He was delayed by high water for seventeen days. He crossed June 12th, 1720. He refers to the three branches of the river now known as "Three Forks" which a modern historian says: "Three Forks of Little River made by the juncture of the Lampasas, Salado and Leon, designated by the Mexicans as well as the early Anglo-American settlers as the San Andres, was a notable locality in the Spanish-colonial and pioneer period of Texas. Many stirring episodes occurred in and around this vicinity. Speaking of the Lampasas (water fly) and the Salado (saltish) it may be of interest to know that the names of these two streams were in some way transposed, the original names being characteristic, but as now, not so. In like manner the Brazos and Colorado were misnamed."

In November, 1732, Bustillo, traveling from San Antonio on a campaign against the Apache Indians with one hundred fifty-seven Spaniards, sixty Indians, one hundred forty pack loads of supplies and nine hundred horses reached Little River. Dr. H. E. Bolton has identified his name of the stream "premier brazo" or first Brazos as our own Little River. In other Spanish records the name San Andres is used, and the name was used by the early pioneers of the Texas Republic.

In January, 1842, an act of congress named commissioners to select a permanent county seat for Milam County to be called "San Andres". Had it not been for the death of a brave hero, Captain Ewen Cameron about this time our "friendly city" might now be known as San Andres instead of Cameron.

The San Gabriel River was seen and named by Espinosa and Ramon in 1716. Both of them made entries in their diaries. They called the San Gabriel River "San Francisco Xavier". The name San Gabriel seems to be an American corruption of San Xavier. Austin's original map made in 1829 calls the stream San Javriel. The field notes dated June 21, 1833 of the Juan Jose Acosta league grant call the stream River San Javriel. Soon the form became San Gabriel.

In 1774 San Francisco Mariano de los Dolores Viano, missionary from the Alamo, while on a tour in search of Texas Indians came upon a large encampment near the juncture of the San Xavier River and the Arroyo de los Animas. (This locality is spoken of now as the fork of Brushy and the Gabriel.) The next year in June 1745 four Tonkawa chiefs went to San Antonio to ask for a mission for their country. In 1746 government consent was obtained and Father Dolores founded a mission on a site known now as Kolb's Hill on the San Gabriel. Much history has been collected about this mission which was raided by the Apaches, visited by a scourge of smallpox, and, after some years, abandoned. The mission was known as the San Xavier Mission.

Espinosa on May 28th, 1776 called Brushy Creek "Arroyo de los Animas" in his diary, and he said the name was given because his route had been committed in prayer to the "Blessed Spirits." This Spanish name was probably continued until the early Texas cowmen were troubled in cow hunts along the stream by the undergrowth and fixed upon this stream the name "Brushy Creek." One branch of the stream is called "Dry Brushy."

The name Yegua is the Spanish

name for mare. There are three branches of this stream, referred in surveyors notes as the first, second and third Yeguas. Just who named the stream or under what circumstances I have been unable to learn. In 1836 the name was well known. In Spring of 1824 Colonel Abner Kuykendall was on the trail of Indian raiders but lost the trail on the Yegua "in consequence of the great number of wild horses and buffaloes which ranged through that section of the country." So perhaps the mare for which the Yegua were named was from the mustang family.

An early Texas historian tells us: "The pioneers found wild horses here which the Indians had learned to break to their will and the settlers found them very useful when brought under the halter but dangerous to the horses they brought with them from the old states since the mustangs might induce them into the wild life of the prairies."

These mustangs are but a memory of the past but they played a heroic part in the development of Texas and it is fitting that two creeks in Milam County, one near Hoyte and one near Yarrelton, preserve in their names Mustang Creek this history for us.

Bear Creek is a name very familiar to Cameron people and I wish that I might tell a Big Bear story or a little Bear story that would give the true version of how these creeks got their names. The names of the forgotten razor back hog, the longhorn cow and the wonderful wild turkey are each found among the names of our streams, Hog, Turkey and Cow Creeks.

Sandy, Copperas, Boggy Pond and Salty Creeks are perhaps named for natural characteristics.

Their location and distance from Old Nashville the early capital of Robertson's Colony and the first county seat of Milam County gives their names to Three Mile and Six Mile Creeks.

From two tribes of Indians who once roamed over our prairies have been taken the names of Tonk and Lipan Creeks, and in Indian Hollow the name of the race itself is preserved.

Humble things have been incorporated into history. Some trees have received immortality through the historian. Brier and Briary have their names from the humble brier with which we are all familiar.

The beloved Cedar Creek and Cattail along the water courses, the sturdy Pin Oak, and the musical rustling of the Cottonwood have each given their names to one of our streams.

Trees more than any other created thing are the embodiment of grandeur, grace strength, shelter, fruit and beauty. Trees have stood sentinel and guardian over man since the trees of paradise, sheltered our first parents in Eden. Doubtless there were beautiful Elm Trees in that garden and all along the ages these grand old trees have been mentioned. In American history the Elm tree has been noted in peace and war. William Penn made his famous treaty with the nineteen Indian tribes under an Elm tree. The Liberty Elm on Boston Common was a rallying point of the patriots during the Revolutionary War. Washington took command of the Continental Army under the Cambridge Elm. The Nacogdoches Elm is famous in Texas History. The Elm tree, noted since time began, became famous in Milam County history in the hard fought battle of January 7, 1837 on the creek that now bears the name Elm Creek. The heroic Captain George B. Erath leader of the small force of Texas Rangers thus describes the friendly trees which sheltered his fighting men. "The trees were Elm, about six inches in diameter and the balls of the Indians kept striking them. The Indians charged us with great fury and yells and we could not be blamed for seeking shelter among the Elm trees."

The land on Elm creek was highly desired to early settlers. The greatest drawback was the scarcity of the water supply, so the waters of Elm Creek were more than thrice blessed to the families who settled near that stream. The women for miles around made its banks their common laundry. Soiled clothing, lye soap, tubs, buckets and all the children were hauled to the creek where the family wash was soaked, well soaked, boiled in the old washpot and placed on a strong log bench called a battle board and thoroughly beaten with a heavy paddle. The clothes were dried on the bushes. In this primitive way were the pioneer women of Milam County want to use the waters of El Creek and practice their creed that "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." In the heart of the summer the camp meetings on Elm Creek were famous as the chicken dinners these same women prepared for the pioneer preachers to be eaten in the shade of the beautiful Elm trees along its banks. Elm Creek has two branches, North Elm and South Elm and together they form Big Elm.

The very first land grants of Milam County fronted on the Brazos River later the lands on Little or San Andres River, San Gabriel, Brushy, Alligator, Cedar, Davidson, Pond Creeks and Elm were surveyed. The names of each of these streams as now used were established before 1835. Cedar Creek was originally called Spring Creek.

Limekiln Hollow near Rockdale received its name from the limekiln operated during the Civil War by Dave Scott and Bart Low for the benefit of the settlers so Judge Ed. F. English has told me.

From Thomas A. Kirk, whose family was among the earliest settlers to come to Milam County and who recently passed away as one of the oldest survivors in Texas of the Mexican War, the following story was heard:

"Brit Dawson, whose father lived just across the Brazos from old Nashville told me that in 1837 he was with a company of men camped on the creek now known as Cannon Snap. This company had been collected to repel a threatened invasion of Indians and Mexicans and some of the men were new recruits who knew nothing of war and still less of Mexican warfare. A tenderfoot was placed on guard while the others slept. The inky darkness, noises of wild animals and the hooting of owls must have been trying on the sentinels nerves, and when a dry twig cracked he fired his gun at an imaginary foe and rushed into camp yelling "Mexicans are coming" and when sharply questioned as to how he knew he confidently replied, "Why, I heard their Cannon Snap" and so the Creek was named.

Mr. Frank Miller's version of the naming of Wauleye Creek is this:

"A teamster was guiding his yoke of oxen across the creek and his outfit was mired. Some passer-by interested in his condition after he had spent considerable time trying to extricate his outfit foolishly asked him "What are you doing here?" "Just wauling my eyes," he said and from that time on this stream was called "Wauleye Creek."

Other creeks have been given the names of men whose daring and heroism redeemed our land from the savages who made living here in early days so unsafe and insecure by their murder, rapine and robbery.

Harl's creek took its name from Leander Harl, who received a grant of land in the Maysfield section. His land fronted on the Brazos and was bounded on the south by Little River. The creek ran through his domain and empties into Little River. Little record can be given by his deeds.

Th Neil grant joined Harl's. James Neil was a Nashville Colonist who took up a large tract of land to which he was entitled by Cert. No. 72 issued by the Board of Land Commissioners of the county of Milam. George B. Erath assisted by Jno. McLennan, Henry Katterhorn and Daniel Robinson surveyed for him 15 labors of arable and 10 labors of pasture land, August 20, 1839. The creek which bears his name ran through his survey.

Donahoe Creek took its name from Donahoe who was an early trader and a Santa Fe merchant.

Clay's Creek was named for a gallant Kentuckian, a brave and talented man, Nestor Clay, who served with distinction in 1833. He was a man of super ability. Clay was an Indian fighter who helped to rest our country from the savages and he fell mortally wounded in an attack on an Indian village. His death was greatly lamented.

Davidson's Creek was named for a brave American who came to Texas prior to 1829, from Border Wars is taken the following graphic story: "Mr. Joseph Reed came to Texas in 1829 and settled on Davidson's Creek to follow stock raising. One spring day in 1836 he rode out to drive up some cattle. About a mile and a half from his house he was attacked by forty or fifty Indians. Mr. Reed put spurs to his horse and tried to reach home, the Indians following and shooting their arrows at him. He reached his yard gate and there fell. Mrs. Reed saw her husband galloping towards home with the Indians in hot pursuit and ran to meet him just as he fell dead. This brave woman was determined that he should not be scalped. Taking his body in her arms she dragged him to the house and reached it unhurt, although the Indians were shooting at her the whole time. The Indians camped near the house for some time. As soon as the murdered man's brother heard of his death he raised a small party and attacked the Indians in camp. After a hard fight the brother was killed and several others wounded. The Indian chief was finally killed and the Indians fled, leaving their dead chief behind them. The white settlers on Davidson's Creek were so enraged that they followed a savage example and scalped the dead chieftain."

Reese's Creek was named for James Reese who took up a land grant near the present city of Rockdale, about 1836. Ham Branch was named for the well known Hamilton family who lived near the stream.

Jones's Creek, which is the upper branch of Harl's Creek, gets its name from J. P. Jones, who was the first man to make his home on Jones Prairie, and whose family history is interwoven with that community. He was a brave and courageous pioneer who came overland from Illinois to Texas. The trip was made for his wife's health in 1833, and took six weeks time. They first stopped in Independence, Washington County. Mr. Jones obtained a grant of a league of land in the eastern part of Milam County, then an unbroken wilderness and located it on the prairie, that now bears his name, he did not attempt to make a permanent home, as the Indians were too bad to permit his residing for any length of time in one place. He camped in the timbers with his family and supported himself with his gun and dog for about two years. In 1833 Mr. Jones joined a surveying party which was going toward the Trinity River, on which trip he lost his life, being killed by Indians in the celebrated Battle Creek fight in Navarro County, one of the most noted fights that has occurred in Texas. After sustaining the attack of the Indians all day Mr. Jones and one of his comrades mounted a horse late in the evening and attempted to escape. The Indians killed their horse and then closing in on the riders killed both of them, but not however before they had killed several of the red skins. After the death of Mr. Jones the family moved to Madison County but returned to make their permanent home in Milam County in 1857. Descendants of this dauntless pioneer still live on the prairie that bears his name and some of them make their home in Cameron.

McFall Creek, (the first stream crossed on the other side of Elm Creek enroute to Yarrelton) was named for a citizen of older days who lived near the Creek. McFall was a rough and ready Texan and a typical frontiersman. It is related of him that he desired to marry a very attractive widow who lived near him. Without ceremony he rode up to her house and said, "By golly, I've come to marry you." The widow said, "Mr. McFall, come in and let's talk the matter over, but the impatient suitor said, "No, by golly, if you are going to marry me, get up behind me and let's go to the courthouse at once which she did and so far as the record goes she never had occasion to regret the wedding. Walker's Creek was named for W. H. Walker, a pioneer county judge and head of the Walker family who took up land on that stream and were principals in an Indian fight on June 4, 1836. Three families with all their household goods on wagons ready to retreat to the protection of the settlements at Old Nashville were encamped at his home at Allen's Springs. The day before a roving band of Indians had attacked the cavalcade of Goolsby, Childers, who were fleeing from the neighborhood of Three Forks to Nashville. A fight occurred near the mouth of Elm Creek and Doctor Davidson and Rev. Mr. Crouch a Baptist minister, were killed. These same Indians attacked the Walker homestead.

The Walkers with the family of Camelback Smith grandfather of Mrs. J. M. Ralston, barricaded themselves in the cabin and successfully repulsed the Indians. They made their escape to Nashville and the records say that they crossed Little River on the celebrated "Raft" which was cleared from the river long ago. Among many good things which Judge Walker did was to make a gift of the land on which the Salem Methodist church is built.

Thus we see in the names of our streams we honor these gallant men whose names are interwoven with our history and whose lives furnish so much of stirring interest. They made our country what it is today. And their memories will be cherished as long as the waters of our streams flow onward to the sea.

"There's not a land beneath the sun Where freedom's colors wave Whose legends tell a sweeter tale Of Heroes true and brave."

FIDDLER WITH ONLY HALF FINGER ON TWO HANDS TO PLAY FOR THE WORLD'S PRIZE OFFER IN MAINE

With the coming contest on April 23 for the fiddling championship of Milam County to be held at the Yoe Hig hSchool under the auspices of the American Legion for the benefit of the school, the following will be of interest to the people of the county:

Lewiston, Me., April 4.—Grey-headed fiddlers, bald-headed fiddlers, fiddlers who play by the book and fiddlers who play by ear, left handed fiddlers, and even a fiddler who boasts but half a finger on his two hands—all the fiddlers anywhere who lay any serious claims to the fiddling championship of the world—come trooping into this little central Maine city this week-end for the world-wide fiddlers' contest which starts on Monday.

Never before in all the history of fiddledom, perhaps, have so many fiddlers gathered in one spot as have come, or are coming, to Lewiston's great fiddling contest, which will last the entire week.

There's John Wiseman, the 76-year old fiddler who has come all the way from Bantry Bay, Ireland, to have a crack at the fiddling title. And there's Charles B. Brooks of North Edgecomb, this state, who has come to try conclusions with Wiseman in the all-Ireland night contest as well as in the great final elimination contest. Brooks aged 76, claims to be the only left handed fiddler in all Maine.

Then there's "Slam-Bang" Durrell of Farmington, Maine, aged 77, and H. H. Hossmer, the cowboy champion violinist of Montana, who is coming all decked out in chaps and sombrero. Not to mention "Prof" Fred F. Abbott of Bedford, Maine, who claims to be the world's only half fingered fiddler. He lost nine and one half fingers in an accident but with a half finger left to finger the strings and with a special device for holding his bow, he insists he is as good as ever.

J. Scott Skinner, 83, and white of hair, will uphold the honor of Scotland. Not since "Honey Fitz" was elected mayor of Boston years ago has there been such hubbub and a how-de-do by the Boston Irish and the Boston Scots as occurred this week when Skinner and Wiseman arrived from the self-same ship—the Cunarder Caronja. Irish and Scottish pipers lined the deck and before the ship was made fast they began to view with one another in welcoming their guests. Of course there are 10 Irishmen to every Scot in Boston, and while the Irish out-noised the Scots with their snappings and reels, the Scottish pipers piped on as if there weren't an Irishman in the world. No heads were broken and the best of order prevailed.

But coming back to the fiddling contest, which has all Lewiston by the ears. The armory, which is the biggest structure in the city, has been leased for the occasion and every night next week there will be a 5-hour show, with the talent divided by nationalities.

Monday is scheduled as Canadian night. The festivities will start with a concert by the dominion band. Then will follow, in rapid succession, Canadian jigs and songs, with dances by Dorothy Hodgkins, a demure miss from across the border, by Baby Louise Montgomery of Beverly, Mass. and others. These, with numerous other features, will occupy the first hour. Then the Canadian fiddlers will play it out for the championship of Canada. Their efforts will be interspersed with Canadian talent vaudeville and the evening's entertainment will be topped off with an old-time dance.

Tuesday night will be Irish night and a great night is anticipated. Irish fiddlers and pipers are flocking in from far and wide. The Irish Pipers' band of Boston has been practicing for two weeks on jigs and reels that will make it impossible for the most decorous feet to remain decorous. Irish colleens and bogholes from Boston will delight the audience with their dancing, and then the Irish fiddlers will fight it out for the Irish fiddling championship.

American night comes Wednesday and it is expected that on this occasion the big armory will be taxed to its capacity. Scores of American fiddlers already are on the ground and more are coming. Wednesday afternoon will see the juvenile fiddling contest open only to persons under 13 years of age.

Thursday night will be Scottish night and bagpipes will skirl and hie-lancers will do the fling as a prelude to the contest for the fiddling championship of Scotland.

The free-for-all comes on Friday night, with representatives of all nationalities eligible. Saturday afternoon will be given over to a special jazz contest.

And Saturday night—ah, Saturday night will witness the greatest fiddling event ever staged—the struggle of the masters of the various nationalities for the world's catch-as-catch-can fiddling championship.

The prizes are $1000 cash, a big silver loving cup and a $200 fiddle—not to mention the huzzahs, cheers and acclamations as the champion fiddler of the world.

Louisiana Man Tells How He Keeps "Up and Going."

"It doesn't matter how strong and healthy we think we are," says Mr. W. S. Reynolds, of Arcadia, La., "every once in a while, in order to keep up and going, we have to cleanse the system and take a little something for the liver."

"My old standby is Black-Draught. I have used it off and on for 20 years."

"I get bilious and have a bad taste in my mouth. My head feels dull. I just don't feel like getting around and doing my work. I know it isn't laziness, but biliousness, so I take a few doses of Black-Draught and, when it acts, I get up feeling like new, full of pep and ready for any kind of work. I can certainly recommend it."

"Black-Draught liver medicine is made from pure, medicinal roots and herbs and contains no harmful, habit-forming mineral drugs. In an easy, natural way it helps cleanse the system of poisonous impurities and tends to leave the organs in a normal, healthy condition."

"I'M NOT AFRAID TO DIE," SAYS CHAPMAN, AS LAST PERSONAL APPEAL FAILS TO WIN GRACE

Wethersfield State Prison, Conn., April 5.—"I am not afraid to die."

With death by hanging but a few hours away, Gerald Chapman, who once was a superbandit, but Monday night had become only a lonesome little man in prison, spoke these last words before his counsel left him to make ready for the end.

His last hope of escaping the grotesque death which awaited him shortly after midnight vanished when his personal appeal to the Connecticut State Board of Pardons was denied.

It was in his carefully segregated cell on the second floor of the prison hospital that Chapman was informed of the board's decision and the fact that he must hang for the murder of Patrolman James Skelly eighteen months ago.

A fading twilight shone through the narrow barred window of the cell as Judge Frederick Grohel, who had made an unprecedented number of appeals on the bandit's behalf, went to the cell door with tears streaming down his cheeks and broke the news to Chapman.

The condemned man did not flinch. The perspiration stood on his pale, high forehead, and he mopped at his face with a white handkerchief for a second.

Seven hours of life remained for Chapman when he was informed of the board's decision. But he was stoical, almost indifferent.

"I didn't expect to gain anything for myself by my appeal to the board," he remarked in a low, studied voice which is the result of a year's solitary confinement. "I did hope to throw some light on the way the witnesses in this case were handled."

Just as when he stood before the board Monday afternoon in a room crowded with newspaper men and witnesses and vibrant with a strange emotion of excitement which the calm, unemotional bandit seemed to create, Chapman was rather the aloof scholar, studying his case abstractly, than a man who in a few hours was to be hanged. He seemed to view the matter impersonally. When he touched on his feelings it was only to say: "I am not afraid to die."

Within the death house preparations were concluded to make certain that Chapman would die at the scheduled time.

Probably no condemned man ever before had such a long-drawn-out and unavailing fight made on his behalf.

Chapman suffered not only the suspense of waiting for the day of execution but the constant torture of hope deferred.

The bandit's counsel was persistent rather than skillful. When Chapman made his last dramatic appearance before the Pardon Board Monday, a slender, rather diminutive man with a personality which dominated the gathering, it was plain that he possessed a keener mind and a better grasp of the situation than the men who pleaded in his behalf.

Yet there was a certain resignation when the bandit rose to speak in his own behalf. He seemed to agree with the general impression that he was doomed. And like a cornered animal, rather than resorting to a sensational plea for mercy, he struck savagely at his prosecutor, State Attorney Alcorn.

SOUTHWESTERN CHORAL CLUB

The coming of the Southwestern Glee Club to Cameron had been looked forward to with great interest by a large group of friends of Southwest University in Cameron. The appearance of Mary Freeman, who graduated from Yoe High last year with members of the Glee Club lent local interest and enthusiasm. The club members arrived in the afternoon over the Santa Fe from Taylor where they had presented a program on Thursday evening. They were carried in autos to the Yoe-Hi building where Miss Mary Lake Henderson assigned them to Cameron homes previously tendered them. Mrs. G. T. Moore entertained Misses Lilian Thompson and Johnnie M. Brooks, Mrs. Claude Triggs had Misses Bernice Kilgore and Ora Lee Blatherwick, Mesdames Clifton Jenness and T. J. Denson entertained Misses Lucile Elliott and Velma Biggs. Mrs. Roy Jeter had Miss Mary Freeman and Wilmoth Nesbitt. Mrs. C. N. Green entertained Misses Alverta Gee and Edith Wilkes. Misses Lorraine Herbert and Ruth Hoyle were with Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp. Mrs. Lena Baskin was hostess to Miss Willie Faye Whitworth, pianist and Miss Imogene Sutton. Miss Rosalie Baskin and Mrs. Frank Wendt claimed the director, Mrs. Sallie Belle Matthews Chambers, and the reader, Miss Elizabeth Hodges. Mrs. W. B. Levy had the soloist, Miss Louise Wright, and Miss Mary Lee Payne. Miss Mary Lake Henderson entertained Miss Marilyn Mildred Vanse and Miss Elizabeth Little.

The concert program was given in the evening in the Yoe High auditorium and the choral club members were enjoyed to the fullest and the closing Southwestern Song was cheered to the echo. Members of the club appeared in dainty and becoming evening gowns in pastel shades and the stage picture was one long to be remembered.

The mezzo-soprano soloist, Miss Louise Wright, exhibited marked talent and training and her numbers were appreciated. Miss Vause, the violinist, gave exquisite pleasure in the rendition of her numbers and obligato. The reader, Miss Elizabeth Hodges, who is a daughter of Mr. Ollie Hodges of Beaumont, who has many old time friends in Cameron, in reading "The Happy Prince" was heard with pleasure and received unstinted applause.

Miss Mary Freeman, charming and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Freeman of Maysfield was one of a sextette of singers, who rendered old fashioned airs that reached the hearts of all. The pianist, Miss Whitworth, was heard with pleasure in her two numbers and in her delightful accompaniments. Mrs. Sallie Belle Matthews Chambers, the director of the club was at her best and the general excellence of the concert program reflected her painstaking effort and exceptional talent.

The hope was expressed that the Choral club of Southwestern will include Cameron when making engagements for other tours.

Local Marine Gets Diploma While On Duty In Far China

Washington, D. C. March 28.—Distance proved to be no handicap to Thelston Todd Anderson, of Cameron, Texas, who was awarded a diploma of proficiency as a railway postal clerk, by the Marine Corps Institute here, while the young man was stationed with the U. S. Marines at the American Legation, Peking, China.

The diploma was forwarded to Peking, and it was accompanied by a letter from Major General Lejeune, Commandant of the Marine Corps, praising the student's excellent work in completing the course.

Thelston is 21 years old, was born in Cameron, and formerly made his home with his mother, Mrs. Sally Anderson, rural route 2, that town. He joined the Marine Corps at Kansas City in 1923, and after a period of duty at San Diego, Cal., was assigned to duty in the Far East. In recent months he has been with the Marines on duty at Peking.

The Marine Corps Institute gives free instruction to Marines, through the correspondence method, in the arts, trades and sciences, preparing its students for civilian occupations. Despite the fact that he was many miles from the Institute, young Anderson successfully passed his examination.

BUSINESS WOMEN HEAR ADDRESSES

The Business and Professional Women's Club held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the new Ada Henderson school building and despite the electrical storm and rain a large crowd gathered and enjoyed one of the best programs ever given at these meetings.

Mrs. Meta McCown acted as chairman of this month's committee in the absence of Mrs. Cora Cammer, who was appointed the month before. The program for the meeting was historical. Instead of answering to Roll Call, the chairman asked that each present give the place of their birth, which resulted as follows: born in Cameron, 8; born in Milam County, away from Cameron, 12; out of the state, 7. The large number remaining confessed to being native Texans. Five of the number present had the distinction of being born in a log cabin, and, as usual, "expected to have marked success through life." The President, Miss Annie Stallworth, held a short business session at which time the names of Misses Petsey Thompson, Louise Atkinson, Lucille Butts and Mrs. John Worcester were presented to the Membership committee, and will be voted on by the club at the next meeting. Miss Jane Caton, Club Sponsor for the Memorial Stone Mountain Coins, gave a short talk on the final disposal of the coins, which completed Cameron's quota. Various ones gave talks on what they had done. Chairman of the Educational Committee, Mrs. Bessie Louise Hefley, presented some plans before the club in regard to taking up work of helping some worthy girl through a business course, also spoke on starting a circulating library for the Club members. No definite action was taken on the matter and was deferred until next meeting.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. McCown took charge of the program and introduced Miss Mary Lake Henderson, who in her charming manner gave some splendid jokes and instances that happened in Cameron many years ago, which had been related to her by older citizens, going back to the time when Cameron was but a village. This was a humorous talk that was highly enjoyed by all present.

Miss Annie McLane gave a paper on the pioneer business women of Cameron, when the field for women was not open as now; when women remained at home and did not venture out into the business world. Her grandmother, Mrs. A. A. Brooks, had the first down town business place, when she opened up a Millinery shop and ran a dressmaking establishment in connection in the year of 1880. Mrs. Brooks is now aged and enjoys a pleasant home with her daughter, Mrs. John B. McLane and family, and is lovingly surrounded with splendid nieces and nephews. Next Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp was introduced by the chairman in a delightful manner, calling her the "Historian Laureate of Milam County." Mrs. Kemp was given an ovation by the club. She read a splendidly prepared paper on "The Streams of Milam County." This paper was full of historical events, leading up to the naming of the streams of Milam County, and contained valuable history which many had never heard of. It was found that Milam County is rich with romance and traditions, and well worth studying. Mrs. Kemp gave this paper in her most delightful style, and was given special attention by all present. Mrs. Kemp with her husband, Judge Jeff T. Kemp, were guests of the Lions Club at their mid-day luncheon that day, and read this same paper.

The luncheon was prepared by Mrs. Ida Alexander, who has charge of the Cafeteria at the school building, directed the preparing of the menu which was a dainty salad plate with ice cream and rich confectory cakes. The table was beautifully laid with snowy linen and under the deft hand of Mrs. Ed. Lovick, was prettily decorated with blue bonnets, and Indian Blankets. A large United States Flag graced the end of the hall. The following girls who are members of the D. E. Class at school served the luncheon in a delightful manner: Misses Ruby and Lois Robbins, Ethel Green, Doris Adams, Euline and Geraldine Slaughter. This was the first meeting of the club in this building, and a glowing tribute was paid to Miss Ada Henderson, for whom the building was named; and also to the late Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Yoe who gave to the city of Cameron the Yoe-High school building.

At the close of the luncheon, Prof. T. A. Fisher, Superintendent of the Cameron Schools, came in and in a gallant manner showed the assembly over the entire building and Cameron is to be congratulated upon having such careful and painstaking teachers as she has. Every room was found in perfect order, although the teachers did not know that their rooms would be on inspection that evening when leaving. Many fine, instructive pictures were found on the walls of the many rooms, and perfect order was seen in all equipments for teaching. In the assembly room for the younger grades, the club was treated to an instructive movie picture by Mr. Fisher. This was very enjoyable, as well as instructive, and the club extends many thanks to Prof. Fisher for his many courtesies of the evening. They also wish to thank Mrs. Alexander and the corps of splendid girls who so beautifully served during the luncheon, and all who helped to make the evening a success.

The club voted to give Mrs. Cora Cammer a Post Card shower Thursday. She recently suffered an automobile accident in Houston, and is confined to her bed in the home of her son, neCammer and wife at 1438 Barnard St. Houston. Miss Olga Marek who had been sick, was remembered by the club with a pot plant, which was ordered from the Florist. Beside club members there were present the following guests: Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp, Mrs. Walter Newton, Misses Maurine Lovick, Petsey Thompson and Lucille Butts.

The following committee was appointed for next month's entertainment: Chairman, Mrs. Claude McGregor, Mesdames Susie Slone, C. W. Price, Misses Kittie Smith, Annie McLane and Carrie Marak.

Mr. Charlie Price honored the club program.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

The plea is made by the North Texas Vocational Teachers' Association for the providing of vocational training for the rural high schools.

It would be a great thing if the rural schools could all become affiliated and the training in agriculture and other vocational subjects be accredited. At present but few are either affiliated or have such training.

There are going to be many Texas children who will become farmers. As long as this is true, and it is necessarily so, it is the duty of the state to provide as good training for them as for anyone else.

Vocational training is growing all over the country. Charts show that the study of English and modern languages has lost ground and that commercial subjects and home economics and agriculture have made great headway.

We must never lose sight of the advantages of English and arithmetic and the other standard subjects, but in this day of specialization, the student must get some specific kind of training, for today it is the trained man who wins in this game of life.

Moody Is Asked To Quit Job As Attorney General

Dallas, Texas, April 3.—In a 1,500-word statement issued Saturday by T. H. McGregor, an attorney of Austin, senior member of McGregor and Burr, attorney general Dan Moody is called upon to resign his present public office before beginning his campaign for governor.

Two proposed laws introduced in the lower house of the legislature and killed in the committee, while McGregor was a member of that body are cited in the statement. Both were to the effect that no incumbent state official, either elective or appointive, should while holding one office of honor, trust and profit, seek another.

The statement also defends the administration of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Like those issued by the Governor's husband, however, it does not mention the candidacy of former Lieutenant Governor Lynch Davidson for governor.

THE BEST CITY

There are some folks so constituted that if you put them into the highest class city or town in America, they would look at its institutions and privileges in a deprecating sort of way. They would be constantly remarking that if they could have their way they would go elsewhere, but they merely stay on there because they are forced to by having a job or business there.

And there are some, who if placed in any old ordinary town, where there is nothing out of the usual, and no exceptional advantages, will yet love it and say it is the best town on earth. They will be such loyal friends and good neighbors, that they will attract the affection of all the people they meet. They will feel such deep attachment to a community where these ties exist, that it will seem the best place on earth. And so it will be, for them.

We need more of that type of folks in Cameron.

Ouch! My Back! Rub Lumbago Pain Away

Rub Backache away with small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints!

10,500 Bales Grown On Prison Farms

Austin, Texas, April 4.—During the cotton season of 1925-26 the Texas prison system produced 10,500 bales of cotton which was sold for $903,134, according to a report compiled by George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture, and released Saturday.

Of the 10,500 bales 9082 bales were classed by state classifiers. On March 12, there was 1418 bales unsold. Premium over Houston spots on day of sale as result of classifier's assistance was given as $79,617.

NERVES ALL UNSTRUNG?

Cameron Folks Should Find The Cause And Correct It.

Are you all worn out? Feel tired, nervous, half-sick? Do you have a constant headache; sharp twinges of pain, too, with dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Cameron folks recommend Doan's for such troubles.

Mrs. A. W. Esslinger, North Travis Ave., Cameron, says: "I had a bearing down pain across my kidneys and at times when I bent over, sharp catches took me across the small of my back and it wasn't a bit easy to straighten. I felt tired and nervous and my kidneys were weak and acted too freely. I began using Doan's Pills from Schiller's Drug Store. One box drove the trouble away."

Big Production of Chevrolet Automobiles

Recognizing the intense interest of the motorists in details of automobile construction which are ordinarily visible only during building process, the Chevrolet Motor Company has prepared a coach with both body and chassis cut completely in two.

Real "inside information" regarding the improved features of the practice of the old-time merchant who used to put the best apples on top this model exemplifies the policy of the motor car industry in seeking to give as full information as possible the non-technical motorists on knowing what is underneath the surface. The interior of the motor and chassis are laid bare in every detail and every feature of the body—upholstering, seat construction, top, windshield and floor have been cut through, presenting a complete picture of materials and methods in building the car. How durability and comfort are built into the modern automobile are graphically shown.

Cylinder walls and housings covering various moving parts have been cut open permitting a full view of the new light skeleton pistons, the improved lubricating system, advanced rocker arm and added cooling surface afforded by the new cylinder head construction.

The standard Fisher coach body has been ingeniously dissected, exposing the strong construction and artistic fittings of the closed car. Body-building an art for centuries demanding the highest degree of artisanship since the early days when craftsmen gloried in the title "Coach-building to the King" is here exemplified in the minutes detail of modern perfection. Ingenuity of the builder is shown to have kept pace with the latest advances in chassis engineering.

The cut-away model is to be shipped to various dealers for display throughout the country.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS

Fall River, Mass. A hundred and eleven mills, all the stores, factories and business houses of Fall River were kept from operating a few days ago by a stray cat. The animal saw a nice sparrow on a transformer and made a leap for the bird. A short circuit was caused and electric service was stopped for half an hour. And it didn't kill the cat.

Longview, Texas. Some criticize the mail service, but we must admit it performs its duty, even if it is sometimes slow. Miss Nina Chaney wrote a card to Miss Mollie Chaney of this city in 1915 and mailed it in Galveston. The card arrived clean and well preserved a few days ago.

New York City. Impatience oftentimes proves costly. Albert Stone sued Charles Z. Winer for alienation of his wife's affections. While the jury was out, he offered to settle for $4,000. Winer agreed. A few moments later the jury came in with a verdict of $20,000. The court held that the private settlement would stand.

Vancouver, Canada. It is not often that we find anyone who wants to go to prison. Elzer Lavigne asked that he be sent to the penitentiary in order that he could learn a trade. As he was arrested for burglary, his request was granted.

SPORTS

Austin, Texas. Adrian Paulen, the Dutch track star, who is now visiting America, may enter the University of Texas next year to continue his study of oil geology. Paulen recently ran in the Texas Relays.

Littlefield, Texas. A golf club has been organized here with a membership of fifty persons. The course is to nine holes and the greens will be oiled sand. Artificial hazards are to be constructed.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Hints For Helping

Do not feel badly if your machine strap breaks. Simply take a strip of unbleached muslin about an inch and a half wide and the same length as the strap. Fold it up and stitch it tightly. If made tight on the machine it will do the work as well as the strap.

Recipes

A new variety of cornbread

A cup of wheat flour and three cups of cornmeal are mixed together. Two teaspoons of baking powder and one of salt are mixed together. Two teaspoons of baking powder and one of salt are added. A quart of milk and a cup of warm molasses are then added. The mixture is put into a mold and steamed for three hours and forty-five minutes. Be careful that enough room is left in the mold to allow for swelling.

Style Note

Colors are going to rule supreme in spring footwear. The softer color effects are to be the better. Heels are to be higher and reptilian leather is to be used in trimmings to a great extent.

The Movies

Charlie Chaplin and his wife, Lita Gray Chaplin, are the parents of a new son. The first child was born a year ago. The new baby has as yet not been named.

Greta Garbo, a Swedish actress has made a hit in her first picture. It is called "The Torrent." The story was written by Ibanez and was directed by Monta Bell.

In "Lady Windermere's Fan," Irene Rich gives one of the best performances she has ever done. She gets out of the mistreated wife roles and has a part as a sophisticated woman. The director of this Oscar Wilde story is Ernest Lubitsch.

Tiny Finds a Way

By HOMER B. KING

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

TO BIG JIM CARNAHAN—Lippy—and Tiny Perkin, had come the parting of the ways.

It was the finding of a rich old river bed at the end of the fifty-foot tunnel they had driven into a hill that caused the trouble; after years of seeking, the possibility of sudden wealth had suddenly awakened in Lippy the devil's cupid.

Today the last of the gravel they had wheeled out was being sluiced and Carnahan had driven Tiny away, swearing he would twist his skinny old neck if he came back before the work was finished. Sneaking around through the brush, Tiny hid close to where the big fellow was working, and for two hours watched him, and before leaving he knew Carnahan was robbing him.

When Carnahan entered the cabin Tiny greeted him in his usual cheery manner.

"How'd she clean, Lippy, boy?" he chirped.

"Not much—that's all," Carnahan growled, dropping two slim buckskin dust bags on a slab table.

An hour after Carnahan took from beneath his bunk two other bags of gold dust.

"Pull up!" he ordered. "I'm going to divide what we've got."

"What's the idea, boy? Can't we do that when we get to Mt. Idaho?"

"No! We're splittin' right now."

"Why?"

"Because," Lippy rasped, thrusting his heavy face forward, "because, old man, you leave tomorrow for outside. I'm through supportin' you."

"Why, Lippy, you ain't supportin' me—our claim's more than doin' that." Carnahan laughed shortly.

"Our claim?" he scoffed. "Ain't you woke up yet to the fact that you ain't got no claim? It's mine, old man."

After pouring half of the second bag on a piece of paper, folding it and pushing it towards Tiny, he rose, and first placing his gold beneath his jacket pillow he dropped on his bunk.

For a time Tiny sat silent. "Boy," he at last quivered, "what you've done ain't square, but I've lived a long time and seen lots of things—and understand. I've found out that gold madness is worse than most anything a man can get—and Lippy you've got it!"

"Shut up or I'll—" "See," Tiny interrupted, "it'd make you murder your best friend. Come on, son, let's get away. We'll go down to Mt. Idaho and spend the winter."

Carnahan leaped to his feet. "Cut it, you old rat! I know what you are drivin' at—you want to get me out where you can make a fight for half of this claim. Well, you don't do it—and tomorrow you git!"

It was after midnight when Tiny, leaving Carnahan snoring loudly, slipped out and hurried up the creek to the tunnel. Lighting a stub of candle he went inside. In half an hour he found Carnahan's cache. His next move was to stick fuses into several sticks of giant. Five fuses he capped; the others he only tied to the powder and dropped them into a sack which he hung across his shoulder, leaving the fuses dangling. Next he placed two of the loaded sticks at the tunnel mouth, lighted them and ran down the creek toward the cabin.

He was still running when the explosion came and small rocks rattled about him. He heard the roar of sliding earth and knew the tunnel was no more. Next he heard Carnahan yelling his name as he ran toward him, and slipping into the brush he let him rush past. Then he ran on to the cabin.

First he took the gold from beneath Carnahan's pillow. Next he carried out their remaining grub, Carnahan's clothes and their blankets. Dividing the food he put his part into his sack; the other half he left on top of the blankets. Placing two sticks of giant in the doorway he again ran. Then came the roar and the cabin was a jumble of logs.

"Two minutes after, raging like a crazy man, Carnahan came running back, and Tiny, swinging about his head a stick of dynamite with lighted fuse, yelling like a mad man, leaped toward him.

"Git out of the way!" he screamed. "Git! I'm comin'. I'm the powder man—powder man!" he sang, and disappeared into the bush as the roar of the powder he had thrown sounded.

Lippy gave one look and ran as though devils were pursuing him.

In Mt. Idaho, two days later, Lippy, red-eyed and haggard from sleepless nights of terror, stood before Sheriff Adams.

"I tell you, sheriff," he was saying, "he's plum crazy. Poor little devil. Way, man, he done his best to blow me to smithereens with dynamite. He did blow up our tunnel and cabin. We'd made the biggest cleanup of our lives, too, and he blowed it plum to kingdom come, but—"

"Hello, Lippy—figgered I'd find you here," Tiny called from the doorway. "Beat me in by an eyelash, didn't you?"

"Look out!" Lippy yelled, dodging behind a desk. "Look out! He's got the powder in that sack! Look out!"

Tiny grinned.

"Don't get excited, sheriff. I throwed the powder away 'fore I got into town. I got suttin' better'n powder here," and he dumped on the desk six buckskin bags. "Wish you'd weigh that sheriff. Half's mine and half's Lippy's. Him and me had a little argument back at the mine. Howsomever, it's settled now, ain't it, Lippy?"

AN IMPRESSION OF YOUTH

A lady who rode in a railroad train with quite a company of young people, largely girls, some days ago, reported her impression of them. In former years, she said, the more poetic aspects of girlhood used to impress her. She thought of them in a romantic way, as budding in a kind of charming uncertainty, and sweet and maidenly reserve.

But now, she said, she did not have that romantic thought about them. They impressed her as being very strong and powerful, and perhaps a little hard. Not hard in the moral sense, but lacking something of sentiment and feeling, and having a great deal of power. They lacked the reserve of former times, but it seemed as if they were strong enough to do anything.

That impression was given partly by their somewhat noisy ways, partly by their fine physical development, to which their sturdy legs contributed not a little. It seemed as if they were strong enough to do anything, and with such evidence of muscular development, they did not see into need to ride in automobiles much.

"I am afraid of you," remarked this lady. "In a few years you will be running the world, and we shall have to do as you say."

The community can be very glad that the young people are coming up with the ability to do things which this lady perceived in them, also with so much of good physical development and healthy muscle. Much of the world's troubles in former years has come from imperfect physical conditions. But it takes something more than mental and muscular power to make the world run right. Let us hope that the young people also will obtain an equipment of the more spiritual qualities.

ATHLETE VS STUDENT

An exchange reports that a high school teacher in its own town, in addressing an organization of business men, raised the question whether they would prefer to hire an athlete or a fine student.

He supposed a case something like this: Two boys should apply for a job. One was a good student who had made over 90 per cent in school work. His rival was an athlete prominent in football and basketball, who had played the game clean and true, fighting when his team was losing just the same, but this boy had only made 80 per cent in his class work. The question was raised, which of these boys these business men would hire?

That is a very pretty question, and you could start a high class argument over it in most any company of people. The chances are the majority would say they would prefer the athlete. They would feel that he was a kind of all round fellow who had shown fine qualities of courage and manliness and courtesy.

And yet a great deal could be said in behalf of the good student. He anyway had shown power of concentration. While many of his classmates were going in for the fun of athletics, he saw the necessity of sticking to just one thing. He had devoted himself entirely to the work which he was sent to the school to do, and had made a fine success out of it. It would seem as if his chances of making a success of whatever he took up ought to be good.

Both fellows in such a case would no doubt come out well, and both have shown fine qualities. Yet there are some of us who would feel that the student had shown even more of a capacity to stick to a hard task than the athlete, and that he had shown more of the qualities that are useful in the world.

PERSONAL COMBAT

A dispatch from Russia tells us how massed pugilistic combats have become a kind of sport

A dispatch from Russia tells us how massed in that country, and whole villages have lined up in general fistic encounters. One village will challenge its neighbors to a collective fight, and the people gather from miles around to see the mele.

Such an encounter might be useful to take up the attention of those turbulent Russians, who have been making themselves too conspicuous. But in a community like Texas there is a disappearance of the old fashioned instinct for physical combat.

Boxing seems to be more popular now than ever before, and is legitimate sport. Public sentiment feels that if people desire to compete in fighting prowess, they should have their combats governed by scientific rules and refereed by fair umpires, so it shall be true sport and not an exhibition of brutality.

Few of the crowds that gather to see the bruisers administer hard blows, will themselves put on the gloves and take hard knocks. In years past it was not uncommon for men to engage in fistic combat to settle their differences. In some sections it used to be common for people to come around to "lick the editor." In many rough places a man had to have some physical stamina in those days to do newspaper work.

Today when an editor does a mean thing, people know that there are better ways of getting at him than calling around with a horse-whip. The physical attack would arouse sympathy for him, but the cutting exposure of his meanness by public statement will get a good deal further under his skin.

Schoolboys still have to fight because they are young savages, but the adult world has found more intelligent ways of settling its quarrels.

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

Among our modern thinkers are many pessimists who seem to feel that the country is in a pretty bad way. One complaint often heard is that the whole nation is engaged in a mad scramble for wealth, it is argued, are forced to get along in a narrow kind of way in which they can find little pleasure.

But the average person can have a great many satisfactions, even if he or she does not attain any wealth. If people have education, the wide world of books and literature is open to them at slight cost. Such people should find greater pleasure in the masterpieces of romance and poetry, than is ever obtained by spending money.

Whether or not people have education, there are many pleasures open to them. Modern invention has brought the automobile to our doors and placed it within the reach of the average family. With this wonderful facility we can wander around the country on our off days, and take delight in the beauty of nature. The wonders of moving pictures, radio instruments, the phonograph, etc., bring us constant entertainment for little money.

It seems a rather coarse view of the world, to feel that only by spending a lot of money can obtain happiness. The wealthy are not probably any happier than the average person. Happiness is obtained by some form of pleasant activity. The penniless youngster playing baseball or tennis and putting the full enthusiasm of his nature into his game, is probably a lot happier than the average man of wealth, who has often injured his health in the struggle for success.

Family relations should give a great deal of happiness. The poor man with strong sons and daughters growing up often feels richer than the childless man of wealth. Happiness is not measured by the opportunities to gain riches.

ORIGINAL THINKING

We wear much of overproduction of most everything. There is one thing in which there is no overproduction, and that is of intelligent thought. Those who know how to do their own thinking are always able to command interest.

Take it in the field of the preacher, for instance. You can find innumerable churches where the congregations are scanty. That may be due largely to the fact that the popular mind is absorbed by amusements and money making. And yet you also find crowded churches. In such churches there is usually in the pulpit a man who has the power of original thought. It is the same in the field of statesmanship or the lecture platform.

The reason why many people lack the power of thought, is that they accept the statements that they read in the newspapers or that someone gives them, without any effort to go over these subjects by their own processes of reasoning. They should ask themselves if these things are true, and if they accord with the facts of their own experience.

That power can not be acquired all at once. But if people in their youth will form this habit of considering the statements that are made to them in a dispassionate way, and reaching conclusions of their own based on their actual observation and knowledge, they will gradually gain this power of originality. Their words and ideas will be listened to.

There are many persons who do a good deal of thinking, but they do not command respect because they do not think straight. Their minds are governed by prejudices, and they can not see things in an impartial way. The popular common sense rejects their views. But if a person can think, and if one's thought shows candor and intelligence, one will count in whatever circle or profession he is found.

CUTTING UP REAL ESTATE

In developing new tracts of land for residence there is always a temptation to handle them in a way that will bring in some quick money, but will not promote a pleasant development in the long run. One thing often done is to cut land up into small lots. That may make it easy to sell the land quickly. But as soon as houses go up, it will be seen that the homes are crowded too close together.

There will not be so much need in future for people to crowd together in the way they formerly did. When the majority of people have automobiles, and there are bus and trolley lines available in so many locations, people will go farther out into the outskirts of cities and will demand fairly good sized lots.

INHERITANCE TAX REVIEW

The state of Texas will probably collect more than a million dollars in inheritance taxes during 1926, according to W. M. Woodall, chief of the inheritance division of the State Comptroller's Department. Last year over six hundred thousand dollars were brought into the coffers of the state from this tax.

The inheritance tax brings to the government of Texas money that can be well spent and the tax is not injurious to anyone. Persons who are rich enough to leave a big estate to someone else should not begrudge the state in which they live a portion of their wealth. The person who is to inherit the money can well afford to share his good fortune and it means that the commonwealth has revenue from a source that does not hurt the poor man.

To be sure, it would be possible for an inheritance tax law to be unfair and too large, but such is not the present state of affairs. The present tax is reasonable. Let us hope it remains on our statute books.

MAKING OUR TIME COUNT

Unless there is some public movement for beautification of home places there is in many cities less attention to the cultivation of flowers and shrubbery than there was some years ago. There are so many pleasant things to do, that people hate to give their time to such work. With the automobile read yto carry them far into the country, they feel it burdensome to dig in the dirt.

While a reasonable amount of time spent in such pleasures is desirable, one should not spend all of one's spare time in that way. Some of it should be put into the efforts that give permanent satisfaction. A nice bed of flowers will please you every moment during the blooming season, besides giving you the sense of having contributed to the beauty of Cameron.

WHY "BOOMS" OCCUR

One of the reasons why there has been such a real estate boom in Florida, and why similar propositions elsewhere have attracted investment and speculation, has been that people are greatly drawn to new neighborhoods where plans are made for model villages after the most modern ideas.

The American people appreciate the beauty of order when it is presented to them. They may create disorderly towns themselves, but when they go into a new town or district where the whole thing is built up from the beginning, according to modern ideas of town planning, they appreciate the harmony and symmetry of the arrangement.

Any energetic community can have many of the advantages that new or rapid growing towns have gained, by applying just the same principles to their own development, by regulating their new growth according to the standards of good taste, and by removing old defects.

Many of the conditions that often make older towns seem undesirable, are created simply by neglect and inertia. After people have seen a certain thing that is wrong year after year, its disagreeable aspects seem less conspicuous, and they do not view it as a stranger would. If that town had the modern spirit, some steps would be taken to remedy these conditions.

If owners are keeping conspicuous property in a decadent condition, so as to injure the whole town, some committee might well wait on those owners in a tactful way, and inquire if it would not be for their own interest to improve their property. We need more of this active spirit of improvement here in Cameron, to remove some things that are wrong, and to plan the growth of the community so that it shall take place according to the most modern ideas.

HOME BEAUTIFICATION

The coming of spring should not be regarded in a passive way, as something that we are all to enjoy without effort. The bright sunshine gives us a new chance to take advantage of the lavish bounty of nature for our home places.

Nature offers her hearty co-operation with ambitions for scenic beauty. All we have to do is to plant the seeds of beauty on our lawns, and fertilize and water them and pull up a few weeds, and nature does all the rest. A house thereby becomes more of a home, and it gives us more of comfort and satisfaction.

If you want to make a pleasant home for children which they will dislike to leave and where they will bring their friends, give it some adornment. If it is bare and plain, it is hard for them to become attached to it. If it is made lovely with flowers and foliage, it will deepen their attachment to all the family stands for.

WHO WILL BE LEFT OUT?

Next Sunday morning is the time when every Sunday School pupil and every member of the church is asked to bring a special offering. The Sunday School offering is to be put in an envelope and the regular church offerings are to be turned into the Sunday School offering, and the Sunday School class will get credit for that offering this time.

Will you be one to make it unanimous or will YOU BE LEFT OUT? We are hoping that not a one will be left out, but that you will bring your offering in an envelope next Sunday morning and will help us to make it 100 per cent. We want you to make your offerings as large as you can, but you need not be embarrassed because of the size of the offering, on the other hand do not fail to make an offering, so we will have to be embarrassed because of failure to reach the 100 per cent mark.

KELVINATOR AND REFRIGERATOR

Delivered complete in one unit like a piece of furniture.

One electric connection and you have Kelvination, the perfect Refrigeration.

The Kelvin-et is sold and delivered to your home in one unit. Every part is enclosed in the refrigerator itself. When we deliver it we set it in place, make the electric connection and within a few hours you can place your foods in the dry, intense cold of the Zone of Kelvination. They will stay fresh and wholesome for days.

From that time on you simply forget refrigeration. It operates automatically, and requires absolutely no attention. There is no thermometer to watch; no necessity for turning the current off or on, no filling of the ice compartment.

You can go away for a week or a month. The Kelvin-et will keep your food cold until you return. If you move, the Kelvin-et can be taken with you like any piece of furniture and quickly placed in your new home. In other words, the Kelvin-et is like a refrigerator that actually keeps itself cold, all the time.

BANKERS SURVEY STATE BANK LAWS

Find That Movement for State Guaranty of Bank Has Gone Into Eclipse.

New York.—A survey of state banking laws conducted by the State Bank Division of the American Bankers Association shows marked progress toward greater uniformity and more efficient bank supervision, it is declared by Frank W. Simmonds, in charge of the division, in a statement giving the results of the investigation. He says that the movement for state guaranty of bank deposits appears to have gone into eclipse.

"The division has urged that the office of bank commissioner be freed from politics and all other functions of state government and tenure be made more secure with sufficient compensation and discretion to attract men of outstanding ability," Mr. Simmonds says. "Gratifying progress has been made during the past year in important bank legislation in many states. Idaho, Wyoming and Oregon led the list by adopting entirely new modern banking codes, while Texas and Montana have new codes in preparation."

Uniformity Among State Laws

"The survey shows that it is generally agreed there should be a high degree of uniformity among the states in laws dealing with certain fundamental principles of bank organization, regulation and supervision, and that there is a strong tendency in this direction. We find a very definite trend toward increasing the minimum capital requirements of banks to $25,000; creation of banking boards to act in an advisory capacity with the state bank commissioner, and legislation empowering bank commissioners to take complete charge of insolvent banks and to liquidate them as distinguished from liquidation through the courts."

"We find also a trend toward legislation providing for closer supervision and regulation of building and loan associations; more equitable taxation of bank stock; legislation providing for merger, conversion or consolidation of banking institutions; the legalizing and regulating of what is known as 'departmental banking'; broadening the field for investment of funds of saving banks and trust companies, and increasing the power of the bank commissioner as to granting or denying charters for new banks, and authorizing his making reasonable rules and regulations governing bank management and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof."

"Additional general characteristics of state bank legislation are for increasing the compensation of the bank commissioner and lengthening his term of office of four, five or six years, with power to appoint necessary deputies and examiners; legislation providing for the reduction of mandatory bank calls to three and reducing the number of examinations required by law annually to one; making issuance of worthless checks a misdemeanor; limiting or prohibiting an officer or director of a bank borrowing from his bank unless his collateral is approved by a majority of the board of directors, and limiting or prohibiting the opening of branch banks."

Eclipse of Guaranty Movement

"The question of state guaranty of bank deposits appears this year to have passed into an eclipse, so far as the extension of the idea is concerned, notwithstanding the fact that state guaranty laws were recommended by the governors of two states, and bills were introduced in several of the states, all of which were defeated. The general tendency, so far as state guaranty of deposits laws are concerned, is distinctly the other way, the indications being that several states now having guaranty laws are trying to free themselves from this legislation. Oklahoma has abandoned the plan of state guaranty of deposits, and this year the South Dakota legislature has repealed the state guaranty law and has referred the repeal to the people at the next general election for ratification."

BANKERS RAISE FUND OF $500,000 FOR EDUCATION

A fund of $500,000 to endow scholarships and research in economics in American colleges was recently established by the American Bankers Association in celebration of its Golden Anniversary. The intention of the Foundation is to promote education in the direction of sounder general economic understanding. Half the total sum represents subscriptions by the American Bankers Association, the American Institute of Banking and Individual Bankers, and the other half quotas assigned to bankers in each state. The Association gave $50,000 from its reserve funds, and the American Institute of Banking, through individual subscriptions from its members, who are chiefly clerks in the banks, subscribed $25,000. Numerous subscriptions of $5,000, $2,500 and $1,000 each were made by individual bankers in all parts of the country.

STUDENTS AWAY AT SCHOOL

Some parents have spoken to the pastor about their children who are away at school, and are members of this church, and have said that they were going to put in a special offering in their names next Sunday. That is a very commendable thing. We hope that every parent will do that. Think for yourself and help that we may get the five hundred offerings next Sunday.

TOM CONNALLY IS CANDIDATE AGAIN

FIGHT ON G. O. P. TARIFF.
HIGH FREIGHT RATES

Marlin, Texas, April 3.—Congressman Tom Connally of the Eleventh district, through friends here today, announced his candidacy for re-nomination for congress in the democratic primaries.

Congress is in session and will probably continue in session until June 1 or later, and Mr. Connally's public duties will prevent him from making an active canvass until after the adjournment of the session.

Mr. Connally's attitude upon public questions is well known and the people of the district and well acquainted with his services and his activities in congress in behalf of democratic principles.

He has been an outstanding figure in opposing republican high protective tariffs and high freight rates on agricultural and other products, which have resulted in discrimination against the agricultural interests and sections for the benefit of the industrial and manufacturing sections of the United States.

Mr. Connally's friends and those who approve his course on public questions will look after his interests during his absence from the district occasioned by his official duties. Upon the adjournment of congress, Mr. Connally will, according to his custom, return to his home here and visit points throughout the district.

SUCCESS IN AMERICA AN OPEN HIGHWAY

How Four Boys of Humble Origin Have Become Chiefs of the Greatest Financial Organization in the World.

Broad highways of achievement are wide open to all in America no matter how humble their beginning. It is brought out by a writer in Forbes Magazine, telling of the successive elevation of poor boys to the chieftainship of the most powerful association of financial power in the world.

"Nowhere is opportunity so democratic as in caste-free America, nowhere is recognition for faithful service so little conditioned by inherited position and wealth," the article says. "The bounty of America in bestowing her rewards of great success upon those of modest origin is again notably manifest in the rise of Oscar Wells to the presidency of the American Bankers Association."

"The son of a tanner, John H. Duellinger, was elected to this eminence in 1922. Circumstances ended his public schooling in the seventh year and he went to work in a carpet store in Milwaukee. At sixteen he entered a bank as a clerk, rising step by step until he became president. Recognition of his abilities as a banker and civic service through public education in sound economic understanding brought him the highest reward from his profession."

"A former country school teacher, Walter W. Head, born in a farm hamlet in Western Illinois, was elected president of the association in 1923. He gave up teaching and a salary of $75 to enter banking at $40 a month in a small Missouri town. He subsequently became president of a bank in Omaha, the largest in Nebraska and a dozen neighboring states. The position he occupied in advancing agricultural welfare during the period of depression led to his being called the 'Granger President of the American Bankers Association.'"

"From Irish immigrant lad to supreme head of banking in America epitomizes the career of William E. Knox, president of one of the largest savings banks of the country in New York. His business career began as an office boy in a publishing house, and he later entered the bank as a clerk. Experience with humble people in their problems of personal finance and his inculcation of economy in all matters attracted country-wide attention."

"Oscar Wells, who rises in 1925 as successor of these men, was born in an old weather-boarded log cabin house in the Missouri River bottoms of Platte County, Missouri. He became an orphan when three years of age, losing his parents in an epidemic that ravaged the countryside. He passed under the care of an uncle, head of a small country bank in Platte City, a town of a few hundred inhabitants, growing up on a farm and receiving his early education in a rural school. He later entered Bethany College, West Virginia, but at the end of his junior year he had to quit college and go to work in the bank."

His subsequent career was one of steady progress, first to higher positions among small country banks, then to larger city banks in Texas, where he rose to the top. In 1914 he was chosen first governor of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank and served through the opening period of the establishment of that institution. He resigned to become president of a bank in Birmingham, Alabama, which has grown under his administration to be one of the largest and most successful institutions in the South.

HUGE GROWTH IN SCHOOL SAVINGS

New York.—School savings in the United States for the year 1924-1925 increased in aggregate bank balances by $5,500,000, with a growth of 630,000 in the total number of pupils participating. It is shown in reports made to the American Bankers Association, which declares that the returns encourage belief in the permanence of school savings as a part of the educational program in the public schools.

During the year the number of reporting school savings systems increased from 683 in 742 districts to 760 in 1,557 districts, the number of schools from 9,080 to 10,163, the number of pupils participating from 2,236,326 to 2,869,497, the deposits from $14,991,535.40 to $16,961,560.72 and the bank balances from $20,435,144.64 to $25,913,431.15, says W. E. Abbig, in charge of the Association's savings activities.

Since 1920, the first year for which comprehensive statistics are available, the number of schools having school savings banking has increased 271.4 per cent, the enrollment in school savings districts 278.9 per cent, participants 520.2 per cent, deposits 506.1 per cent and bank balances 516.8 per cent.

With a total of 65,041 automobiles produced during March, the Chevrolet Motor Company smashed all previous monthly records for a single month's production of modern 3 speed transmission motor cars by any automobile manufacturer.

Originally the March schedule was set for 57,500 cars. It was increased when demands from dealers indicated sales would be far ahead of the proposed schedule.

The total March production, with 25 working days in the month, averaged over 2,601 cars daily, and represents a total increase in production over March, 1925, of 23,653, when 41,383 cars were made, nearly twice the production of February, 1925.

An unprecedented and steady demand during the winter months for the new improved Chevrolet models is responsible for the setting of new producing figures, which have kept night and day shifts at the factory working at high pressure.

WHAT WILL THIS SUMMER MEAN TO YOU?

A young man had just graduated from High School and applied for a position in a business office. "Of course," said the boy, "I could wait until Fall to begin if you don't have a place this Spring. I had been planning on a vacation ramble this summer with some of my friends."

"Son, I wonder if you realize what an important part the next few months are going to play in your life," began the business man. "I would like very much to give you a position in my organization, but I'm afraid it cannot be arranged now, next Fall, or next year, unless you give a little more thought to yourself and to your future and unless you are trained.
But, for any one qualified, I have a place now."

Young friend! Do you realize what this summer will mean to you? In a few months' time, you can qualify for a position. If you are a high school graduate, you have a splendid education—an excellent foundation for a real future. But you could not expect to demand a good position as a result of it, could you? A special training would be necessary.

Everyone is watching you. Your parents are hopefully wondering how you are going to turn out. Your friends—boys and girls—are speculating about your future. Business men are sizing you up. They're always on the lookout for new material for their organizations.

However, business men are not going to O. K. your plans for an all-summer vacation right at the start of your career. They don't want procrastinators. They want young people with action, initiative and power of decision. If you want to go to a University this fall, which is all right do not waste the summer. Enter Tyler Commercial College now and prepare to work your way through the University. You can finish your course by the time the fall term begins at the University, and when you have completed the business course, regardless of what you follow, you will find need of your training. Late Judge R.
W. Simpson, having served as district judge twelve years, says: "The business course I took when I was a young man has been worth as much to me as the knowledge I gained in the Law School."

It is not necessary that you go to a University, but it is essential that you utilize your vacation. America's largest business training school can train you within a few weeks to accept and hold a good position. Your success will be assured when you graduate from the private secretarial, general business, general banking, general civil service, general cotton classing, general railroad, general Western Union, radio or penmanship courses. T. C. C. Employment bureau is at your service when you become qualified and they can place you in a position at a good salary and with opportunities for advancement.

Send the coupon printed below for the large free book, "Achieving Success in Business." This book will show you how you can prepare to accept a position this fall. Mail the coupon now for the free book.

"Now students," said the professor,
"tell me what is the opposite of grief."
"Happiness," answered the class.
"Then what is the antonym for sad-

"Joy," replied the students.
"Now what is the opposite of woe?"
"Giddap!" shouted the bright class.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean
Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water.
Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.
A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.
